

THE CAMPAIGN TO FORM a Narcotics Anonymous organization, started by Jerry Williams on his late-night WIBG show (now being aired from the Penn Sherwood's Persian Room), is expected to reach a solid point with the announcement of several hospital officials as officers within a short time. . . . Some 100 employees of the Broadwood Hotel have been given a week's notice by the new management. The decision, the notices said, are "subject to change." . . . Dorothy Adamic, niece of the late author Louis Adamic, is working for the Gray & Rogers ad agency.

A NARCOTICS ANONYMOUS may be formed in the town, as the result of the appearance of a hooded addict on the late-night WIBG radio show conducted by Jerry Williams. Following the appearance, at least a dozen persons called and asked to be made charter members of such a group.
